How does the institution promote a culture of participative management

Participation of hospital facility and clinical skill -

This institution frequently organises various medical, diagnostic camps and health awareness programmes for the benefit of society at large in hospital as well as in remote (rural) areas where medical facilities are rarely available. Our institution also participates in various medical camps organised by NGO's and other reputed organisations. Under the head of Mobile medical unit organisation provides medical aid periodically in rural areas.

Promotion of participation by students in various programmes -

This institution promotes students to take active part in social work by various means such as annual NSS camp organisation, personality development programme etc. Student council is another platform which is available for various social, cultural and intellectual activities throughout the year. We also promote students to take part in various sports and cultural programmes organised by MUHS under Ashwemegh and Spandan respectively. Under the heading of MUHS Bahi-shala programme our institution organises various guest lectures by wellknown personalities from society for students personality development and awareness. Our students also participated in personality development programme organised by Chhatra Sansad, MIT pune. Our students also participated in training programme on First-Aid management organised by Red Cross society at Bail Air nursing college, Panchgani.

Participation of teachers in various National seminars/CME's-

This institution also promotes teachers participation in various National seminars, continuous medical education programme, reorientation training programmes, various research workshops and short duration courses of medical education technology organised by reknowned institutions all over India. Teachers of Dravyaguna department participated in medicinal plant identification workshop in near by forest area as well as in others state. Teachers also took part in yoga and meditation training workshop organised through out the India.

Our teachers delivered lectures to promote AYUSH system to cater the needs of rural population.
